Projections and forward-looking information

Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Estimates of future performance are based on assumptions that may not be realized. The views and opinions expressed in the documents are speculative in nature, subject to change, may not come to pass, and are not intended to predict the future of any investment.

These materials contain projections and other forward-looking statements. Any statements that are not historical facts are forward looking statements that involve risks and are inherently uncertain. Sentences or phrases that use such words as “believe,” “anticipate,” “plan,” “may,” “hope,” “can,” “will,” “expect,” “should,” “goal,” “objective,” “projected” and similar expressions also identify forward-looking statements, but their absence does not mean that a statement is not forward-looking. Portfolio “profiles” by property type, location, investment structure, leverage or return for blind pool or partially blind pool products should be treated as projections. Projections and other forward-looking statements, including statements regarding TI’s assessment of the market, are by their nature uncertain insofar as actual realized returns or other projected results can change quickly based on, among other things, unexpected market movements, changes in interest rates, legislative or regulatory developments, errors in strategy execution and other asset-level developments.

There can be no assurance that projections and other forward-looking information will not change based on subsequent developments and without further notice, and no assurance can be given as to outcome. You should not to place undue reliance on forward-looking statements, including forecasts and projections, and statements regarding the assessment of the market, which speak only as of the date referenced herein. Recipients should not construe the contents of these materials as financial, legal, accounting or tax advice or information necessarily applicable to each recipient’s particular financial situation.
